

Milgard Ultra Series

Quite possibly the ulti

Imagine a window frame material that's stronger than aluminum, as energy efficient as wood and vinyl, and with the expansion and contraction coefficient of glass. Introducing Milgard Ultra™ Series, the newest line of windows from Milgard Windows, already offering the broadest window selection in the industry. Finally, a window for any design, nearly any structural requirement, in any climate on Earth.

The strength of Fiberglass. The quality of Milgard.

Fiberglass itself is really nothing new. It's been floating boats and adding strength to ladders for years. But the complex profiles required for window designs have been impossible to attain with fiberglass.

Milgard's R&D team challenged this perception and engineered a window system that's impervious to water, cold, heat, insects, salt air and ultraviolet. Milgard Ultra Series can't warp, peel, crack, split or pit no matter what Mother Nature throws its way. In fact, we guarantee it.

Our new Ultra Series combines the design flexibility of a wood window, the energy efficiency and low maintenance of a vinyl window, and the structural integrity of a steel or aluminum window system.

Ultra lineal before it enters the die. Note how the roving and mats work together to add strength in all directions.

The look of painted wood. Without the maintenance.

A first look at a Milgard Ultra Series window, and painted wood comes to mind. In fact, the window system was designed to match our high-end WoodClad window line detail for detail. But a closer look, and you'll notice what's missing from the other wood windows you've known – warping, peeling paint, difficult operation (especially in moist air), and unsightly staple and knotholes.

Like our WoodClad line, Milgard's Ultra Series can't absorb moisture, so they're fingertip easy to open in any weather. In fact, they expand and contract about the same as the glass of the window. They're permanently joined without the use of staples or nails. And Ultra's baked-on paint finish can't peel off or eggshell like a painted wood finish.

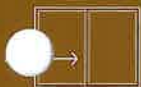

Mix and match Ultra to fit your design.

Milgard's newest window offers a complete line of sliders, single hungs, casements, awnings, bay and bow windows, and picture windows in nearly any shape. They can be joined and mulled to create just about any window combination you can dream up. And since they're from Milgard, every window is custom built to your design. Tell us your opening size, and we'll build a window to fit it.

Ultra Series comes standard in a baked-on White finish. Milgard also offers a variety of optional colors to suit any exterior color palette. These colors include Hunter Green, Sand, and Brownstone. And because of the properties of fiberglass, they can be painted in the field with any color you can imagine. Customer-applied finishes on Ultra windows outlast painted wood windows, since fiberglass doesn't expand and contract like wood surfaces.

Quality is in the details.

When it came to details on the Ultra Series, our engineers didn't miss a trick. And it starts with the design of the window itself—stepped-down, bold lines reminiscent of painted millwork. The hardware is designed exclusively for Milgard—sleek and modern. Color-matched screens are joined with hidden projection clips, creating a cleaner appearance than traditional window designs. Even the weep holes are outfitted with color-matched trap-doors that keep water, insects and dust out of your home.

Ultra offers an upscale look that will complement any luxury home or light commercial project from the Equator to the North Pole.

Beauty and durability, backed by the industry's leading warranty.

Milgard Ultra Series are perhaps the ultimate window available in the industry today. But just as important is the performance of your windows down the line. That's why every Ultra window is backed by Milgard's exclusive warranty. It's simple— if anything goes wrong with your Ultra Windows, we'll take care of it for as long as you own your single family home. Properly installed replacement windows get the same coverage.

Whether you're building a single residence or a master-planned community, our 12 full-scale manufacturing plants and 3,000 employees are committed to getting your window order to you on time and in full.
